IDIOMS

1. to be in one's black books (I know that I am one of those in his black books; I don't think he will let me have the job.)
2. to look blue (Being condemned to a fine of $1000, the convict looked quite blue.)
3. to see green in another's eyes (Why do you see green in my eyes? Will you tell me I am not to be easily fooled.)
4. a red rag to a bull's (He has had books, and the sight of one in a drawing room was as a red rag to a bull.)
5. at one's wits' end (They were arguing with each other about the justice of the war at a white heat.)
6. golden calf, golden boy (His mind is still Stuck prostrated before the golden calf of commercial prosperity.)

SOUND EFFECTS

Hunters spend an astronomical amount of time considering the calls of the wild whistles, horns, and other devices calculated to lure game. On one side, N.Y., duck hunter, who swam ashore endlessly in his living room, was the bane of the neighborhood. One night while he was concentrating on the calling formula of the greenwinged teal, a duck came crashing through his living room window, landing almost at his feet.

For one entire moment he soared the giddy heights of triumph. Then he noticed a note tied to the duck's neck: "Here's your mate. Please go away and lay an egg!

A Guide to Correct English

The Present Progressive Tense

(A) Mr. Lee is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(B) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(C) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(D) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(E) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(F) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(G) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(H) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(I) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(J) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(K) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(L) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(M) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(N) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(O) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(P) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(Q) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(R) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(S) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(T) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(U) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(V) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(W) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(X) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(Y) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.

(Z) He is learning English under Mr. Lee.